Innkeepers tax receipts continue to climb

BY BOB DEMAREE

Innkeeper tax collections in Jefferson County for the first three months of 2023 are continuing to run strong and may be headed toward another record year.

For the month of March, innkeeper tax collections were $39,362.16, a 16% increase over the same month in 2022.

Overall, $119,795.38 has been collected over the first three months of 2023, an 18.7% increase over what was received in the same period one year ago.

The county had collected a record $639,904.11 in innkeeper taxes in 2022 but Visit Madison Inc. Executive Director Andrew Forrester said in February that he expected a "leveling off" of innkeepers tax growth this year, but so far that had has not been seen.

"If things continue to hold, I will be proven wrong about my prediction for this year," Forrester said. "I said it would level out, and so far it has not leveled out. It's continued a nice steady growth which is pretty positive."

In March, Forrester said there was strong hotel occupancy throughout the month. "The weekends are showing a bump, but we're seeing 60% occupancy on weekdays — Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesday — which is just really strong."

Forrester said some of the weekday occupancy is likely due to construction projects that are taking place in the county. However, he also noted "we've been really busy in the Visitor Center" with out-of-town tourists showing up on weekdays. He said visitors are being seen from the region — Indianapolis, Fort Wayne and Dayton, Ohio.

"There are people coming in that are just traveling," he said. "It's good news for us."

Ray Black Jr. (center) and Steve Mitchell (right) were honored Tuesday for promoting wrestling in southern Indiana by the Boys and Girls Club of Jefferson County. The honors were given this week while the little league wrestling tournament is being held. Additionally, Madison Mayor Bob Courtney read a proclamation that designated Tuesday as Ray Black Jr. and Steve Mitchell Day in the city while also presenting each with a key to the city.

Club honors wrestling icons Black, Mitchell

BY BOB DEMAREE

On a night when the club was contesting its youth league wrestling semifinals, the Boys and Girls Club of Jefferson County on Tuesday gave special recognition to two local icons of the sport by honoring Ray Black Jr. and Steve Mitchell for their many years of promoting wrestling in southern Indiana.

Black and Mitchell were both presented plaques from the Boys and Girls Club and Madison Mayor Bob Courtney read a proclamation designating the day in their honor and presented each with a key to the city.

The Mayor's proclamation stated that approximately 4,000 wrestlers have passed been through the youth league wrestling program and commended Black and Mitchell for their commitment to youth.

Black has coached wrestling for more than 36 years, bringing wrestling clinics to Madison first back in 1973. He also is a former head coach of the Madison Consolidated High School wrestling team, leading the Cubs to six sectional championships and two regional titles, and a wrestling official.

Mitchell also has many years involvement with wrestling, serving as an Indiana High School Athletic Association licensed official and also as a middle school coach. Mitchell has served the Boys and Girls Club for 46 years includes a seat on the board of directors.

Black, who was executive director of the Lide White Boys and Girls Club for 34 years from 1984-2018, was also recognized with a new photo of him placed high on a wall at the club facility. Black is the organization's longest serving executive director after taking over that position from John Paul who had been executive director for 27 years from 1957-1984.

Next year will be the 70th anniversary of the organization that began in 1954 when a group of local business people established Madison Foundation for Youth as a place for guidance and direction for boys in the community.

Back then the top floor of the Crystal Beach Bathhouse was rented to the operation as the club's first site. In 1955, it was named Lide White Boys Club in honor of Lide White, a retired Madison educator. In 1989, the club became the Boys and Girls to align with the national parent organization, Boys and Girls Club of America, and to also better reflect the membership that was being served.

Charlie's Beat

Joey's legacy still reverberates

There are a number of people who are no longer with us, but nevertheless had an outsized impact on the Madison music scene. Probably the number one person I'd interview if I could go back in time would be "JoeyG" Gayles, proprietor of House O' Hits record store and the legendary JoeyG's Tavern.

CHARLIE ROHLFING
CHARLIE'S BEAT

Fortunately, local artist Patti Cooper Wells knew Joey very well and had the forethought to collect her thoughts about the great man. The following is excerpted from a short monograph Patti wrote in 2022.

"If you ever doubt one person can make a difference in a community, all you have to do is look at the life of JoeyG. It's hard to believe it's been 10 years since he passed away in 2012 at the age of 54. He left an undeniable cultural legacy in our town and in our hearts.

For 12 years Joseph Gayles ruled over a creative empire of sorts on Main Street, with House O' Hits record store on the north side (now occupied by House Of Jane barber shop and concert space) and JoeyG's Restaurant & Nightclub on the south side.

House O' Hits Radio (on WORX), On the Wall @ JoeyG's (art exhibits) and Joe G's Open Mic Nights were creative offshoots of it all, besides the all important musical epiphanies that happened on stage at JoeyGs.

JoeyG's enthusiasm for art and music was truly infectious. He was a creative whirlwind in his own right, but ENTHUSIASM was his superpower.

It was Joey's lifelong dream

Jefferson County records 172nd COVID-19 death

Bivalent booster available at health department

Cases of COVID-19 remain low in the four Courierarea counties but the Indiana Department of Health has reported one new death in Jefferson County related to the coronavirus.

In data released this week, Jefferson County's COVID-19 death toll is now 172 since the beginning of the pandemic. Overall, there have been a total of 299 COVID-19 deaths in the four local counties with Carroll County at 56, Trimble County 48 and Switzerland County 23.

COVID-19 cases remain low. On Thursday, the community levels were low for all counties in Indiana while all but two counties in Kentucky — Breathitt and Letcher, both medium — were designated as low.

In the last week, there have been just five reported cases of COVID-19 in Jefferson County, bringing the overall total to 11,520. Trimble and Switzerland counties have each reported just one COVID-19 case while Carroll didn't report any. Overall, Carroll has had 4,360 cases during the pandemic while Trimble County has had 2,795 and Switzerland County has had 6,965.

On Thursday, the Jefferson County Health Department announced it is now administering additional COVID-19 bivalent booster vaccines to eligible recipients. Vaccines will be administered by appointment only and appointments can be scheduled on Tuesdays, Wednesdays, and Thursdays between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. by calling 812-273-1942. Please have insurance information ready when calling to make an appointment.

According to the CDC's Interim Clinical Considerations you may be eligible for an additional COVID-19 vaccine dose if:

- You are 65 years of age and older and got your first bivalent (updated) COVID-19 vaccine booster four or more months ago.
- You are moderately or severely immunocompromised and received a bivalent (updated) COVID-19 vaccine booster two or more months ago.

The vaccine dosage will be the same composition as the previous bivalent vaccine that was made available last fall. And, since the current circulating strains are of the same Omicron lineage, there is great confidence that a booster with the existing bivalent vaccine will provide protection from these mutations as well.

Individuals who recently had COVID-19 infection may consider delaying bivalent booster vaccination by three months from the date of symptom onset or positive test. For more information, call the Jefferson County Health Department at 812-273-1942.

The Visit Madison Inc. board of directors elected its next president Monday with Jeff Frazier the unanimous choice to lead the board.

Frazier, who has been on the VMI board for four years, takes over for Lucy Dattilo, who had served as board president the last three years but is now employed by VMI.

In January, Dattilo declined to serve as president and with no one else willing to accept the role at that time, the president's position remained vacant with Vice President Cari Morrison Bear assuming the leadership role until the selection of Frazier on Monday. Last month, Dattilo resigned from the VMI board of directors after accepting a paid staff position as VMI's 365 project manager.

Frazier, who serves as an appointment to the VMI board of directors from the Ribberfest BBQ and Blues, is ready to take on a bigger role. "I look forward to it," said Frazier. "Being a part of this for the last four years has put me in the position to help" in having a good understanding of the VMI and the work that it's doing to promote Madison and Jefferson County. "I think I can do this and do it right. It's going to be my goal to do things right."

In other business:

- VMI Executive Director Andrew Forrester reported that he and board member Jenny Eggenspiller have been working to better execute strategic planning for the organization.

"We both agreed it's something really important that we need to do," said Eggenspiller, noting that while the bvoard's annual retreats establish a list of goals, "I feel the strategical plan document will actually help us to put some of those things into action and help us to prioritize."

- Approved a job description for an associate marketing position that has been left vacant since Hannah Shaffer-Bentley resigned that position last summer. "Marketing is what we do as an organiztion," said Forrester, "and we need some support" for Sarah Prasil who is VMI's executive marketing director. Following approval of the job description, VMI began promoting the open position on Tuesday.
- With River Roots Revival scheduled for June 3, Forrester noted VMI still has merchandise from past River Roots events that can be sold including mugs and T-shirts. River Roots was last held in 2019 and the Kindred Folk Society is now leading the effort to bring it back.

Forrester initially suggested that VMI split the sales proceeds with the Kindred Folk Society, but the board thought a better plan would be to give Kindred all the merchandise for $264 — the same cost that VMI incurred by reinstating the River Roots website. Frazier said doing that would result in fewer complications. "Let's go give them that, and get that out of the way, and let them feel good about their start."

- Welcomed Jim Bartlett to the board after his recent appointment to the VMI board by Madison City Council to replace Dattilo. Bartlett, who serves as an elected at-large member on City Council, also serves an appointment to the Jefferson County Board of Tourism.
- Tourism Week is May 7-13 and Prasil in the process of preparing a VMI annual report to put on display that week to show the successes in tourism throughout Jefferson County.

JCBT awards $25K for marketing of 3 biggest festivals

BY BOB DEMAREE

Appropriations of $25,000 to support the Madison Regatta, Madison Chautauqua Festival of the Arts and Ribberfest BBQ & Blues were approved by the Jefferson County Board of Tourism at its meeting Monday.

All three festivals had representatives at the board meeting to make presentations to JCBT about how they want to use the money. But Erin Kindle, coordinator of Madison Ribberfest BBQ and Blues, was the only one to make a presentation before JCBT approved the $25,000 for each.

Ribberfest and Chautauqua had both requested $35,000 for event marketing while Madison Regatta, represented at the meeting by President Jak McCormick, maintained the $25,000 level.

The idea for providing $25,000 each to Madison Regatta, Chautauqua and Ribberfest had been proposed in February by board member Curtis Chatham, who reiterated his reasoning at Monday's meeting with those being the county's three staple tourism events and that he felt it would be beneficial to establish a long-term agreement to support them. "I thought us committing to them gave them" funding that can be budgeted annually to provide a foundation of support to each of those organizations, Chatham said.

The $25,000 for each approved Monday was just for this year and does not include a longer-term commitment to the events. However, the board's vote was unanimous with the exception of Jim Bartlett, who abstained because he has been actively involved with Ribberfest for years.

In making Ribberfest's presentation, Kindle reported that the request for marketing is needed "to get people here" for the event to generate more revenue. She noted that Ribberfest's funding comes from ticket sales and sponsorships. "We are asking for increased funding from our primary sponsors this year but we also know they're strapped (for money) as well in a post-COVID world."

Kindle said JCBT providing marketing dollars "would be a huge help to allow us to get out further to get people to come to our event." Additionally, she said there are efforts by the event's organizers to make Ribberfest, which celebrated its 20th anniversary last year, so that it is "more sustainable" and "will be here another 20 years."

Without the marketing dollars from JCBT, Kindle said funds would need to be taken from other areas to provide for marketing or possibly increase ticket prices. She said that when Ribberfest was established in 2002 that the founders "wanted it to be a fun event for the community that would be a festival that families could go to. So, increasing ticket prices is a very hard sell" to the Ribberfest committee. "They want this to be a community event."

In other discussions towards the end of Monday's meeting, there was consideration for finding ways to improve WiFi connectivity for vendors to access credit card payments on the streets during festival events in downtown Madison.

McCormick noted the Regatta has been paying $5,000 annually for mobile WiFi "because mobile networks won't handle our new ticketing approach. We literally bring in trailers and equipment, and we have controlled WiFi" during the Regatta. He said the Regatta would be willing to contribute that $5,000 annually to support a more permanent infrastructure in the city that could be shared by all festivals.

Kara Hinze, coordinator of the Madison Chautauqua, said Chautauqua vendors have the same problem with assessing card payment sites. "Ours is a residential issue because a lot of our footprint is in a residential area" and needing places to improve WiFi that's on individual property.

Hinze said the WiFi issue doesn't keep vendors from being a part of Chautauqua but she said it is "a pain point." And it will only become more of an issue. "More and more people are using their cards. I don't know too many people who carry very much cash on them, so that's going to become a bigger issue. But also at the same time I think cell companies are boosting infrastructure in area. So, it's just who is going to grow faster."

residential neighborhood on Peach Court, just east of Columbus, and drove through yards and circled residences before driving back toward the pursuing officers. Based on the officers' statements and evidence gathered at the scene the vehicle drove toward an Indiana State Trooper who was standing outside of his patrol car. The trooper fired at least one round from his department-issued handgun and neither Morrow nor the trooper were injured during the incident.

Morrow continued on for an additional mile before exiting the vehicle. Officers soon located him on foot and placed him into custody without further incident.

Morrow was initially transported to Columbus Regional Hospital in Columbus for evaluation. He will be transported to the Bartholomew County Jail and remanded to the custody of the jail staff, pending the filing of formal charges.

The identity of the involved trooper is not being released at this time. He will be placed on administrative leave, per normal protocol, while the investigation into the incident is ongoing.

Protests to continue Saturday over hiring of Carroll deputy

BY PAXTON MEDIA GROUP

A group protesting Carroll County Sheriff Ryan Gosser's decision to hire a former Louisville Metro police officer who was involved in the shooting death of Breonna Taylor are expected to continue their protests on Saturday.

Gosser on April 22 confirmed the hiring of Myles Cosgrove, who was fired from the Louisville Metro Police Department in January 2021 for violating use-of-force procedures and failing to use a body camera during a March 2020 no knock raid on Taylor's apartment that fatally wounded the 26-year-old woman.

Cosgrove was one of several officers who in 2020 fired into Taylor's apartment while serving a no-knock warrant on her boyfriend, Kenneth Walker. An FBI investigation determined that Cosgrove fired 16 shots into the residence with one of his bullets the likely shot that fatally wounded Taylor. Cosgrove was fired but later cleared of any criminal charges in the incident.

On Monday, a small group of protesters — many from out of town — displayed posters and chanted "Myles Cosgrove, he's got to go" on the Carroll County Courthouse Square as local and state police were on standby in a bank parking lot overlooking the scene.

The protest on Saturday, which is being promoted as a Carroll County community grill, music, art and rally, is scheduled for 4 p.m. to 7 p.m. with a march at 5:30 p.m.

In addition, a petition launched on change.org had 2,414 signatures by early Thursday afternoon calling for Cosgrove's hiring to be revoked while another petition had 450 signatures by early Thursday afternoon voicing a no confidence for Gosser.

In an interview with Paxton Media Group reporter Sara Finley earlier this week, Gosser said Cosgrove is a veteran law enforcement officer who brings 18 years of experience and investigative skills to the sheriff's office.

"We vetted him very well and I'm convinced he'll serve the people of Carroll County with the utmost professionalism and respect," Gosser said. He said he knew protests were always a possibility, but as for future protests that may take place, "as long as it remains peaceful we don't have a problem with that."

"Everyone has the right to peacefully protest," Gosser added.

Robert Miller, chief deputy in Carroll County, pointed out that Cosgrove was cleared by a state grand jury and the state law enforcement council when speaking about the hiring on behalf of the sheriff's office.

Gosser also released a statement on Monday defending his decision to hire Cosgrove. The statement said:

"Former Louisville Metro Police Department (LMPD) officer Myles Cosgrove has been hired as a deputy sheriff in my office. Deputy Cosgrove was vetted through our normal hiring process, including a completed background check and a review of his personnel file.

My office was aware of Deputy Cosgrove's involvement in the 2020 incident involving the death of Louisville resident Breonna Taylor, a tragic and unfortunate event. But here are some of the facts I considered in my decision to make this hire:

- The United States Attorney investigated and found there was no evidence that Officer Cosgrove assisted in the preparation of the search warrant authorizing entry into the Taylor residence. He was merely doing his duty as an officer by serving a warrant.
- The Kentucky Attorney General's office conducted an independent investigation and concluded that Officer Cosgrove and another officer were justified in their use of force.
- A Jefferson County Grand Jury, after considering evidence, did not move to indict Officer Cosgrove.
- The Kentucky Law Enforcement Council (KLEC) did not revoke Officer Cosgrove's police certification — meaning he is eligible to work in law enforcement.

During our review of Deputy Cosgrove's background we learned from his work history that he has an exceptional knowledge of state law and policies; he is polite and courteous with the public and gets along with his peers; and he is a problem solver who exhibits professionalism and excellent judgment.

Deputy Cosgrove was honorably discharged from the United States Marine Corps, is an 18-year veteran of law enforcement and holds multiple specialties and certifications.

The decision to hire Deputy Cosgrove was based on his long-term experience as an officer and his investigative skills. I have full confidence that he will be an asset to our office and our community."

Meanwhile, Carrollton Mayor Robb W. Adams also released a statement this week concerning Cosgrove's hiring and the related protests. The statement said:

"On Thursday, April 20, 2023, at approximately 2:00 p.m., the Mayor and Chief Willhoite learned that Myles Cosgrove had apparently been hired as a deputy by the Carroll County Sheriff's Department. The City of Carrollton had no knowledge of this hire prior to that time. This was a decision made solely by the Carroll County Sheriff Ryan Gosser and had absolutely nothing to do with the city. The city was not consulted, nor were we required to be consulted. The sheriff is an elected position and has the authority to make his or her own personnel decisions. Cosgrove had applied to the City of Carrollton in the past but was not chosen for employment. Over the last couple of days, the general public learned that Cosgrove has been employed by the Carroll County Sheriff's Department. Also, over the last couple of days, the City learned of a potential protest that was going to be held on April 24th at 10:00 a.m. at the courthouse lawn at 440 Main Street Carrollton Kentucky, regarding that hiring. Given the geographic location of the courthouse in the city limits, the City of Carrollton Police Department had an obligation to make a presence to ensure the safety of our residents and visitors. At that point, the Carrollton Police Department did activate their protest protocol to ensure safety. On Monday April 24th at 10:00 a.m. a group did assemble at the courthouse lawn to exercise their right to a peaceful protest, and it was a peaceful protest without any Incident. The City of Carrollton does not have any further comments on this matter at this time," Mayor Robb W. Adams.

Stress and Retirement

"Layin' it on the line"

By Stephen Dybwad
Retirement Planning/
Wealth Management

Retirement can be a time of great joy and relaxation, but it can also be a time of stress and anxiety. Transitioning from working life to retirement can be challenging, and the loss of routine, identity, and social connections can be difficult to navigate. Moreover, retirement can bring new financial and health-related concerns, adding to many retirees' stress.

One of the main sources of stress in retirement is financial uncertainty. Many retirees worry about whether they have saved enough money to support themselves in retirement and fear running out of money before the end of their lives. This fear can lead to anxiety and can make it difficult for retirees to enjoy their retirement years. Moreover, unexpected expenses, such as medical bills or home repairs, can further exacerbate financial stress and add to retirees' worries.

Retirement can also bring changes to social connections, which can be stressful for many people. Retirees may miss their daily interactions with colleagues and feel disconnected from the workplace and the sense of purpose that work provides. Moreover, retirement can lead to changes in relationships with family and friends, as retirees may find that they have more time on their hands than their loved ones do.

In addition to these social and financial concerns, retirement can also be stressful from a health perspective. As people age, they may face new health challenges, such as chronic illness, that can impact their quality of life and add to their stress levels. Furthermore, retirement can lead to a more sedentary lifestyle, which can contribute to a decline in physical and mental health.

There are several strategies that retirees can use to manage stress and navigate the transition to retirement more smoothly. One of the most important is to maintain a sense of purpose and engagement in life. Retirees can find new hobbies or interests, volunteer, or take on part-time work to stay engaged and connected to others. This can help alleviate the sense of loss and disconnection that many retirees feel.

Another strategy is to stay socially connected. Retirees can stay in touch with former colleagues, join social clubs or groups, or participate in community activities to maintain a sense of connection and purpose. This can help prevent social isolation and loneliness, which can be detrimental to both physical and mental health.

Moreover, retirees can take steps to manage their financial concerns by creating a budget, working with a financial advisor, and exploring different retirement income sources, such as Social Security or annuities. This can help alleviate financial stress and provide a sense of security and stability.

Finally, retirees can take steps to maintain their physical and mental health by staying active, eating well, and seeking medical care when needed. Engaging in regular physical activity can help improve mood, reduce stress, and prevent or manage chronic illness.

In conclusion, retirement can be a time of stress and uncertainty, but there are strategies that retirees can use to manage these challenges and enjoy a fulfilling and healthy retirement. By maintaining a sense of purpose and engagement, staying socially connected, managing finances, and prioritizing physical and mental health, retirees can navigate the transition to retirement more smoothly and enjoy a fulfilling and rewarding retirement.

to own a nightclub, and when the old bar restaurant at 218 East Main became available, his dream became reality. People will remember the very earliest days with Mikey tending bar while Joey's wife, Cheri, and Tony handled the kitchen.

While they were building the stage, Joey asked me to paint a mural right in the center of the dining area. He gave me complete artistic control, which is a rare thing for an artist, let me tell you. I painted the mural during the first two weeks Joey's was open, while his customers watched.

I knew the mural subject had to be the great musicians of our age, and I chose Robert Johnson, Joplin, Hendrix and Miles Davis. But I needed one more and I couldn't decide. Joey chose Bob Marley, and it was perfect. My only regret is I couldn't work Buddy Holly, Chuck Berry or the Beatles into the composition. (The mural is still a feature at Off-Broadway Taproom to this day, some 23 years after completion.)

The truth is, Joey almost bankrupted himself bringing in top musical acts seven nights a week, but that was his vision. He also was a huge supporter of our local talent. Local favorites The Blues Devils, Shock Treatment, The De-Rangers, Cheryl Clarke, Same Soul, Rusty Bladen, Jimmy Davis and Slick River Rockets were all fixtures at Joey's.

And many solo and acoustic artists also found a stage to express themselves, including Tammy Dubuque, Sandy Pickett, The Troubadours of Divine Bliss, Big John Adkins, Code Blue, Rubber Revolver and "Blind Boy" Roy Gentry.

JoeyG was a trailblazer. Everywhere I look downtown I see his cultural seeds blossoming and branching out. In so many ways he was 20 years ahead of what Madison was ready for. He was a visionary. Joey was fond of saying "Keeping it real." But I would suggest his real motto was "Making it real." Joey made it happen, and it's a legacy we still enjoy today." — Patti Cooper Wells.

HOT TIP OF THE WEEK

Admittedly, not everyone has the gumption to get up from the couch on a Thursday night and go see high-energy live music. But if you are one of the lucky ones who makes the effort, the show at Red Bicycle Hall on Thursday will not disappoint. Tennessee Jet is a one-man tsunami of rollickin' country rock and you'll be so glad you came. Grab some friends and make them come with you, they will thank you!

Rivertown Grill is doing a double dip on Saturday night, with shows at 7 p.m. and 10 p.m. going into the wee hours. Owner Joe Breeck told me the late night band, The Switch, is really hot.

And finally, looking out to next week, the House of Jane show next Thursday, May 4, will be quite special. One of the artists, Jordan Smart, just won the prestigious GemsOnVHS songwriting competition. Get tickets at MadTixEvents.com.

Charlie Rohlfing is a retired advertising man and partner in The Red Bicycle Hall music venue. Look for his distinctive fedora bobbing above the crowd, anywhere live local music is happening.

Madison blows out Jac-Cen-Del, Scottsburg to improve

BY THE COURIER STAFF

Ava Armbrecht tossed a 3-hit shutout and hit a home run to lead Madison to a 12-0 beating of Jac-Cen-Del on Monday in Osgood.

Madison's Chip Cox set a new personal-best in the pole vault at 14 feet, 7 inches in the Cubs' meet with Oldenburg Academy on Monday. The vault is the third-best in school history.

Cubs' Cox continues dominance of pole vault with 2 wins

BY THE COURIER STAFF

Madison senior pole vaulter Chip Cox pushed his career-best in that event higher to lead the Cubs' track & field team at two meets earlier this week.

Cox set a new personal-best with an impressive leap of 14 feet, 7 inches to easily win the event in a dual meet at home against Oldenburg on Monday. The effort is the third-best in Madison school history.

Cox took a little off his effort in the next meet but still cleared 12 feet to win at the Seymour Invitational on Tuesday. He was the lone winner for the Cubs in the tough field.

Cox was the highlight, but Madison still posted a total of 23 event wins in the dual-meet win over Oldenburg on Monday.

Other winners for the boys in that event were: Darius Jay, 100 dash, 12.67; Peyton Stewart, 400 dash, 1:02.66; L.J. Harvey, 110 hurdles, 18.96; Blake Pettit, 300 hurdles, 53.66; Colton Copeland, high jump, 5-6; Jake Dyer, long jump, 16-8; Don Chen, shot put, 34-2; Bryce Miller, discus, 111-10; 400 relay, 47.92; 1600 relay, 3:53.04; and 3200 relay, 9:19.39.

"This was a great opportunity for a lot of our younger guys tonight. With the Seymour Invitational tomorrow we didn't run everyone in their events," Madison boys coach Scott Holcroft said. "This allowed our second and third guys to show what they can do. They all stepped up and performed very well."

Winners for the girls against Oldenburg were: Autumn Ross, 100 dash, 13.86; Bridget Cline, 200 dash, 29.41; Addison Nott, 400 dash, 1:11.09; Ava Spencer, 800 dash, 2:42.24; Cadence Traylor, 3200 run, 11:44.14; Dellah Gibson, high jump, 4-8 and long jump, 15-3.5; Libby Bronkella, pole vault, 9-0; Hannah Dart, shot put, 34-4; and 3200 relay, 12:40.34.

"A night of getting out of our comfort zones as everyone did at least one new event they had never done," Madison girls coach Patrick Maschino said. "Distance dipped into the sprints, and vice versa while the field stayed solid."

Other top finishes for the boys were: Brady Lathrem, second, 200 dash, 26.61 and third, 100 dash, 12.99; Peyton Obertate, second, 110 hurdles, 20.25; Taye LaBolt, second, high jump, 5-2; Mason Davis, second, pole vault, 10-0; Blake Pettit, second, long jump, 16-3.5 and third, 110 hurdles,

Bengals' Taylor set for 5th draft as head coach

BY KEITH JENKINS
ASSOCIATED PRESS

CINCINNATI — "Draft Day" isn't on the list of Zac Taylor's all-time favorite movies.

"I saw it a long time ago. Very unrealistic," the Cincinnati Bengals coach said Monday.

The 2014 film, which stars Kevin Costner as Sonny Weaver Jr., the fictional general manager of the Cleveland Browns, gives viewers a dramatic look inside an NFL team's room during the draft.

"It's like anything about your job, when it's that unrealistic, it's hard to accept," Taylor said.

But what about a movie focused on the Bengals' draft day experience?

"I'd watch it," he said.

Taylor will experience his fifth draft with the franchise when the first round of the NFL draft kicks off Thursday night in Kansas City, Missouri.

Cincinnati has seven total picks in this year's draft, including the 28th overall selection.

Taylor wouldn't reveal where the Bengals are leaning with their first pick, but he said he's looking forward to making that first phone call.

"It's a great moment when you get a chance to make the selection and call that young man on the phone and give him the news," he said. "And then I really enjoy watching the videos afterward and seeing how they took that call and piecing all that together."

The most important draft-day call Taylor has made as Bengals coach came in 2020. That call was to Joe Burrow. The former LSU quarterback and 2019 Heisman Trophy winner was the franchise's choice with the No. 1 overall pick.

"There was no pressure," Taylor said. "We all felt really good about it."

Taylor followed that call by placing one to Clemson wide receiver Tee Higgins at pick No. 33 in the second round and then to Wyoming linebacker Logan Wilson at pick No. 65 in the third round. Taylor said he still can't believe both players were on the board when the Bengals were on the clock.

"Those are two guys that stand out where you really didn't think they were going to be there, and then they were, and then you were pretty excited about it," he said. "Logan's the guy I can remember watching 30 picks tick off the clock with your fingers crossed. ... You were just crossing your fingers and watching the clock."

Taylor and the Bengals hope to come away with some more quality players this week. But Taylor said he doesn't feel any pressure to do so. Taylor said he will lean on the preparation of Cincinnati director of player personnel Duke Tobin and the organization's team of scouts to lead the charge in making the right selections.

"We've got a really good group that we trust," he said. "You look at how many drafts (owner) Mike (Brown) has been a part of. You look at how many drafts Duke has been a part of here. Probably 20-something (24), I would guess. That's unheard of. Their experience really kicks in.

"They've seen every situation. They can anticipate every point that comes up when you're comparing prospects. They can kind of foreshadow some of the conversations we're going to have while we're on the clock. That's where the experience really kicks in from the people in the room. I'm inexperienced in that way."

While the 39-year-old Taylor, who has led the Bengals to a 27-13 record over the past two seasons, including a 5-2 mark in the playoffs, is still adding to his draft experience as a coach, he can still vividly recall his experience as a player in 2007.

"In the seventh round, I think that's when my antennas were up," said Taylor, who was the 2006 Big 12 Offensive Player of the Year as the quarterback of the Nebraska Cornhuskers. "Jon Gruden called me probably early seventh round and started recruiting me. Then I was like, 'Ah, that's not good.'

"Then my head coach from college, Bill Callahan, called me and started pushing me that way. My father-in-law (Mike Sherman) was with the Texans and they didn't pick me. They took Jared Zabransky over me (as an undrafted free agent signee). Not that I have forgotten that or anything."

Today's Puzzle Solved

Neighbors' plant is a Little Shop of Horrors

Dear Amy: We have lovely neighbors. They are great. We feel so lucky!

I am a professional landscape designer, and just a little — uptight — about my own garden. I try not to impose my anal retentive obsessions upon others unless they are paying me to do so, but holy noxious weeds — my neighbors' lesser celandine is taking over! This is a terrible, invasive weed that smothers other plants. Native plants and pollinators do not have a chance.

I have put up a fence — the nicest one I can. But it is only a matter of time before this plant has spread everywhere. It doubles every year, spreading underground and on the wind and boots of others.

Should I offer to have my crew take care of it? These lovely people do not care at all about their garden. That is their prerogative. They have a crew who are the worst I have ever witnessed. They whack down the whole thing to the dirt every fall, cleaning it like it's a bathroom. This gives this weed all the sunlight it wants, and now their choices are affecting me.

AMY DICKINSON
ASK AMY

Time is of the essence. There is a short window where this can be taken care of, before I have to wait another year, and then it will be twice as bad. What can I say, or offer to do, without overstepping? — Trying to be a Good Neighbor

Dear Good Neighbor: First, you should acknowledge the possibility that your neighbors like to look out and see this carpet of glossy leaves sprinkled with yellow flowers in early spring. They may see it as the perfect, low-effort landscape that requires no mowing or maintenance.

So before approaching your neighbors, you should prepare yourself for the idea that they either like what they have, or simply don't want to change. Do not assume that they don't care.

A parent is haunted by her folks' creepy friend

Dear Amy: My parents are wonderful people. They have a long-time friend, "Roger," who is a heavy drinker and doesn't have a family of his own. He doesn't seem to reciprocate their friendship, and they seem to accept Roger as something of a family member — he's just someone who is often around.

I am a 40-year-old woman and have known Roger all of my life. When I was a teenager he repeatedly made leering and gross comments to me; I knew he'd been drinking and didn't know what to do about it, so I did my best to avoid him. Once I went to college, it was easy to do, but on visits home Roger often seemed to find a way to sexually harass me.

I never told my parents.

Last year, my husband and I decided to move back to my hometown. We have a teenage daughter and a younger son. We moved back home in order to spend more time with my folks, who are getting up in years.

Roger is still around, and doesn't seem to have changed at all. I don't want to control my parents, but I don't want my daughter to be exposed to the same harassment I experienced.

I'd appreciate your ideas about how to handle this. — Harassed Mom

AMY DICKINSON

Dear Harassed: Talk to your daughter. Tell her about your own experience. Tell her that you never told your folks about being harassed, but that if she ever experiences anything like this, you would like her to tell you.

You've been sitting on this for 20 years or so, and I think it's time to have a chat with "Roger."

If you see him and discern that he hasn't changed, you should tell him, "You harassed me when I was younger and I didn't say anything about it, but I'm letting you know that if this happens again — or if you say anything even slightly inappropriate to my kids — you'll have to deal with me."

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) — You may bask in extra attention on the social rounds when you pair up with high-caliber people. Make a favorable impression on influential acquaintances. Surprise a loved one with thoughtful and imaginative warmhearted gestures.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) — Appreciate the strength of friendships and affectionate ties. You may have a support system at work as well as at home. A spirit of cooperation around a workplace can make any job easier and a pleasure to perform.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) — Money might be the root of all good if you are generous and help other people. Your honesty and commitment to a cause may earn favorable attention. Let your inner child out for recess but do not forget possible deadlines.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — Your horizons could grow wider if you look up from your desk. Money and material success might not be everything. Seek some quiet time when you can contemplate the realm of possibilities and put things in perspective.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) — Foster teamwork and let someone else share the load. Ask for assistance if you have been working in isolation or have been afraid to ask for support. Spend time with optimistic people who can uplift your spirits.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) — Spread the wealth. Treat a loved one to something special. Centering yourself may help you rise above worries that threaten to drag you down. Find a few moments of peace and quiet to recharge your spiritual batteries.

ASTROLOGY

ARIES (March 21-April 19) — Rustle up some romantic moments whenever there is a lull in the day's chores. Someone close might be focused on moneymaking ideas and attaining material security and expect you to share their dreams.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) — Some bargains may not be found in a basement. Go shopping and you could find that perfect something at an estate sale or at an online auction. Your sharp trading instincts may be honed to perfection.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) — You could be inspired to move your career ambitions upward to a new level. You might need to change gears when you participate in family activities, because loved ones may feel you are not giving them their due.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) — Your place in someone's heart may be secure so you do not need to have constant reassurance. Do not vie for someone's attention at an inopportune moment since they could have more on their plate than you realize.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) — Give what you want to receive. Everyone you meet might seem kinder and more generous toward you than usual. But what you see could just be your own easygoing and kindhearted ways reflected in their faces.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — Improve communications by being thoughtful. Avoid making someone's sudden change of mind or impulsive decisions an issue or point of contention. Your keen understanding can prevent a rift.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) — You can safely loan a real friend a book, a tool or money without worrying whether it will be paid back. It may not be necessary to show off your financial skills with someone who doesn't share an interest.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) — Plant a kind thought in fertile ground and it could grow into a lasting friendship or romantic relationship. You may be unsure about an impending business or financial policy, but you are not obligated to decide right away.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) — You are busy with your own agenda so you may be surprised by someone's strategic plans. Once you understand the vision of success that is forming in a partner's mind, you can go along with their program.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — You may receive credit for being an adept businessperson but must remember to give others credit when credit is due. Review something that previously attracted your interest with a more practical eye.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) — Bills can accumulate unless you are vigilant. You might spend money on unsatisfying things if you are fooled by appearances. Avoid imposing limits on what you can accomplish with sufficient determination.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) — Reach out with expressions of sympathy and understanding to put an old relationship back on track. If you are single, a charming someone might welcome a flirtation if you make the first move.

Shawe edges Trinity, falls to Lanesville in tennis

BY THE COURIER STAFF

Shawe posted a 3-2 win over Trinity Lutheran in girls tennis Monday in Seymour.

The Hilltoppers got two singles wins with Sarah Willhite beating Siddha Hall 6-0, 6-4 at No. 1 and Kelly McClure knocking off Sam Enzinger 6-0, 6-0 at No. 2. Julia Leatherman and Autumn Lathrem then posted a 6-0, 6-2 win over Allison Ward and Emily Keller at No. 2 doubles to clinch the match win.

Lauren Grote suffered a 6-2, 6-4 loss to Drew Hubbard at No. 1 singles and Carson Cooke and Megan Morrison fell 7-5, 6-1 to Carson Badling and Kiley Zabel at No. 1 doubles.

On Tuesday, Shawe dropped a close 3-2 match at Lanesville.

The Hilltoppers picked up wins at No. 1 singles and No. 2 doubles but couldn't get the crucial third win to secure the match victory.

"Lanesville is a very good team and we battled hard in most matches," Shawe coach Steve Sims said. "Lauren (Grote) battled and battled, having many long rallies to tire her opponent and get the win. I am proud of how she never gave up. Both of our wins came in three-set matches and I'm proud of the girls for working hard to get those wins in long matches. We have seen some bright spots, now we just have to get everything working together to pull out some more wins."

Grote scored a 7-5, 3-6, (10-7) win over Grace Campbell at No. 1 singles while Lathrem and Leatherman beat Summer Lefler and Sophie Crawford 6-4, 5-7, 6-2 at No. 2 doubles.

Willhite lost 6-1, 6-3 to Lauren Schnieder at No. 2 singles, McClure fell 7-6 (7-2), 6-1 to Layla Teeter at No. 3 singles, and Cooke and Morrison lost 6-0, 6-2 to Jane Davis and Sydney Hodges at No. 1 doubles.

Shawe, now 5-5 on the season, hosted Henryville on Thursday and heads to Trimble County on Monday.

REBELS SWEEP DEARBORN

Southwestern girls tennis posted a 5-0 sweep of South Dearborn on the road on Monday.

The Rebels had little trouble with the Knights, losing only four games over the 10 sets.

"The girls are playing really solid right now. We have had to shuffle the lineup a lot lately with sickness and the next girl up has played great tennis for us," Southwestern coach Kenny Garrett said. "Autumn (Gross) stepped in at three singles and played a great match, Raygan (Crawford) moved up to one doubles and continues her great improvement and Jocelyn (Johnson) slid into two dubs and played a nice match."

In singles, Syrenia Hardy won 6-0, 6-2 at No. 1, Emma Hatton won 6-0, 6-0 at No. 2 and Gross won 6-0, 6-1 at No. 3. In doubles, Crawford and Natalie LaRue won 6-0, 6-1 at No. 1 and Johnson and Kaylee Hite won 6-0, 6-0 at No. 2.

Southwestern, now 9-1 on the season, hosted Madison on Wednesday and hosts Milan on Friday. The Rebels travel to Scottsburg on Monday and host New Washington on Tuesday.

CUBS DROP TWO CLOSE MATCHES

Madison dropped a close 3-2 decision to Hauser at home on Monday.

Ruby Willoughby claimed 3-6, 6-3, 10-7 win at No. 3 singles and Alexa Davis and Bridgett Boles won 6-2, 6-4 at No. 2 doubles.

Claire Slygh lost 6-1, 6-0 at No. 1 singles, Erin Burkhardt fell 6-1, 6-1 at No. 2 singles and Michelle Laguna-Rafeal and Riley Poling lost 6-3, 2-6, 6-3 at No. 1 doubles.

On Tuesday, Madison lost another close match, 3-2 at home to New Washington.

In singles, Burkhardt won 6-3, 3-6, 6-1 at No. 1 and Slygh won 6-4, 6-2 at No. 2 but Willoughby fell 1-6,7-5, 6-4 at No. 3.

In doubles, Laguna-Rafeal and Poling lost 6-2, 6-1 at No. 1 and Davis and Boles fell 7-6, 4-6, 6-3 at No. 2.

Madison traveled to Southwestern on Wednesday. The Cubs next travel to South Dearborn on Monday and to Austin on Tuesday.

Senzel ends Reds homer drought as walk-off drive sweeps Texas

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

CINCINNATI — Nick Senzel hit a game-ending, two-run homer in the ninth inning, stopping Cincinnati's longest homerless draught in 32 years and giving the Reds a 5-3 win over the Texas Rangers on Wednesday and their first series sweep since last July.

Brad Mills' sacrifice fly off Lucas Sims (1-0) tied the score in the ninth. Kevin Newman singled leading off the bottom half against Jonathan Hernández (0-1) and took second on shortstop Josh Smith's throwing error.

Senzel hit a full-count slider off the yellow padding along the top of the left-field wall, ending the Reds' streak of 79 innings without a home run since Kevin Newman's second-inning drive against Tampa Bay on April 17. The eight games without a long ball were the most for the Reds since 1991.

After crossing home plate, Senzel was greeted by teammates who put a Viking helmet and cape on him. The Reds had not gotten a walkoff homer since Nick Castellanos beat Washington on Sept. 25, 2021.

Cincinnati (10-15) completed a three-game sweep of AL West-leading Texas (14-10), the first series sweep for the Reds since last July 8-10 over Tampa Bay. The Reds never trailed in the series finale after overcoming a four-run deficit in the opener and a six-run margin on Tuesday.

REDS 7
RANGERS 6

TJ Friedl drove in the game-winning run with a ninth-inning single and the Cincinnati Reds snapped a six-game losing streak with a 7-6 come-from-behind win over the Texas Rangers on Monday night.

José Leclerc (0-1) walked Jonathan India to lead off the ninth. India went to second on a passed ball and scored on Friedl's sharp single to right off left-hander Will Smith.

The Reds came back from a 5-1 third-inning deficit and tied the game in the eighth on back-to-back bases-loaded walks to Henry Ramos and Nick Senzel by Leclerc.

Alexis Díaz (1-1), Cincinnati's fourth relief pitcher, pitched a perfect ninth for the win.

Nick Lodolo, who allowed a career-high 12 hits in his last start, gave up nine and six runs with two walks and six strikeouts in four innings.

REDS 7
RANGERS 6

Jonathan India hit a go-ahead, two-run single to cap a six-run eighth inning, and Cincinnati rallied from a 6-0 deficit to beat Texas 7-6 on Tuesday night, the Reds' second big comeback in two days against the Rangers.

Cincinnati won by the same score on Monday night, rallying from a 5-1 deficit.

Nick Senzel went 3-for-4 and drove in two runs with two singles, one in the seventh for the Reds' first run. He added a run-scoring base hit with two outs in the eighth. Pinch-hitter Jake Fraley followed with a two-run double against Ian Kennedy (0-1), and India's single off Kennedy completed the rally.

Reiver Sanmartin (1-0) worked a scoreless eighth, and Alexis Diáz pitched the ninth for his second save in two nights.

Starting pitcher Luke Weaver lasted 5 ⅔ innings for Cincinnati, allowing eight hits and six runs.

Rodgers hopes to help Jets add to 'lonely' Super Bowl trophy

BY DENNIS WASZAK JR.
AP PRO FOOTBALL WRITER

FLORHAM PARK, N.J. — Aaron Rodgers watched old Super Bowl highlights on VHS tapes as a kid, dreaming about someday starring in his own.

He heard all about Joe Namath's famous guarantee and saw the footage of the New York Jets shocking the football world by beating the Baltimore Colts in 1969.

"It's been a while since then," Rodgers said while being introduced as the Jets' new quarterback Wednesday. "I noticed walking in this morning that that Super Bowl III trophy is looking a little lonely."

Rodgers hopes he and his new teammates can help add some championship hardware to a franchise hungry for winning.

"I'm an old guy," the 39-year-old Rodgers joked, "so I want to be part of a team that can win it all and I believe this is a place where we can get that done."

The four-time NFL MVP was introduced to much fanfare in the team's auditorium, filled with media, coaches and team staffers — flanked on the stage by coach Robert Saleh to his left and general manager Joe Douglas on his right.

"This is a surreal day for me," said Rodgers, wearing a black and green Jets polo shirt.

The team officially announced the trade for Rodgers moments before he entered the auditorium, where highlights of his career in Green Bay played on a video screen shortly before he walked in.

The Jets received Rodgers, the No. 15 overall pick and a fifth-rounder this year from the Packers. In exchange, Green Bay got the 13th overall selection, a second-rounder, a sixth-rounder and a conditional 2024 second-round pick that could become a first-rounder if Rodgers plays 65% of New York's plays this season.

Rodgers is well aware of the Jets' playoff drought, which at 12 seasons is the longest active skid in the NFL.

"I'm not here to be a savior of any kind," Rodgers insisted.

But that is the expectation by many, including a few generations of Jets fans who have longed to root for a winner. On Tuesday, Douglas called it a "historic" trade for the franchise.

"The opportunity to be part of something special here, it's different," Rodgers said. "It's similar to Green Bay in that way. When you win in a city like Green Bay, and I assume for a team like the New York Jets, you go down in history.

"And there's something special about adding that to your legacy."

Rodgers spent his first 18 seasons in Green Bay, helping the Packers win a Super Bowl in 2011 while establishing himself as one of the game's greatest quarterbacks.

"That chapter is over now and I'm excited about the new adventure here in New York," Rodgers said.

Rodgers said he chose the Jets because he believes in the direction the franchise is heading with Douglas, Saleh and a young core of players that includes Offensive Rookie of the Year in Garrett Wilson and Defensive Rookie of the Year in Sauce Gardner.

Rodgers was also excited about reuniting with Nathaniel Hackett, the Jets' new offensive coordinator who was in the same role when the quarterback won the last two of his four MVP awards in 2020 and 2021.

"When he walks into the building, everything changes," Hackett said. "He just elevates everybody around him."

When the rumors began about where Rodgers might play next, Namath offered to let him wear his retired No. 12 — Rodgers' number in Green Bay — if he joined the Jets. Instead, Rodgers said, "To me, (No.) 12 is Broadway Joe," and he will wear the No. 8 from his college days at Cal.

Rodgers wouldn't commit to playing beyond this season, saying he's focused on this upcoming year and staying in the area "for the foreseeable future" to work out with the team during the offseason program and get to know his new teammates.

Speaking with reporters after the news conference, Rodgers was a bit more expansive on his future.

"This isn't a one and done in my mind," the quarterback said, acknowledging that the Jets gave up a lot in the trade to acquire him. "This is a commitment. But it starts this season. That's why I want to be present and not talk about future things. I want to be all-in."

Saleh joked that Rodgers appears to have quickly gotten comfortable around his new squad.

"He already went to one of the meetings today," Saleh said with a grin, "and he was walking around barefoot, so he's right at home."

Rodgers spent a few days in February contemplating his life and playing future during an isolation retreat in Oregon — while fans and reporters speculated about what he would decide. He emerged and deliberated some more before deciding on March 10 he intended to play again — and for the Jets. Rodgers made his intentions official during an appearance on "The Pat McAfee Show" on YouTube and Sirius XM on March 15.

"It was the Jets, and only the Jets for me," Rodgers said after the introductory news conference.

Rodgers arrived at the facility Wednesday morning wearing sunglasses and a black Jets hoodie. He was greeted one by one by owner Woody Johnson, vice chairman Christopher Johnson, Saleh — who gave the quarterback a loud high-five and hug — team president Hymie Elhai, Hackett and Douglas.

He spent the rest of the morning and early afternoon preparing for his Big Apple intro.

"This is a happy day," Woody Johnson said.

Bengals pick up 5th-year option on QB Burrow

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

CINCINNATI — The Cincinnati Bengals exercised the fifth-year contract option for star quarterback Joe Burrow on Tuesday as they move toward signing him to a long-term deal.

The Bengals said in a statement that they took the "mechanical step" with Burrow and his representatives, who have had talks with the team about his future.

NFL teams had until May 2 to exercise fifth-year options for first-round picks in the 2020 class, and Burrow, the first player taken that tear, has already proven to be worth any extra financial investment.

Since bouncing back from a season-ending knee injury as a rookie, Burrow has gone 20-10 as a starter while leading the Bengals to a Super Bowl appearance in 2022. The 26-year-old has passed for more than 4,400 yards in each of the past two seasons with 69 touchdown passes.

Burrow made the Pro Bowl for the first time last season and led the Bengals back to the AFC title game, where they lost a rematch against Kansas City.

It's possible Burrow's new deal could eclipse the record-setting package Philadelphia recently gave quarterback Jalen Hurts, who got a five-year, $255 million contract that included $179 million guaranteed.

Burrow began his college career at Ohio State before transferring to LSU and leading the Tigers to a national championship. The Bengals selected him with the No. 1 overall pick in the 2020 draft.
